Yestryman Quackenbos's Formal Answer to Dr. Rylance's Libel Suit.

The Rector's Alleged Immoralities Detailed in Affidavits.

Dr. Bylance and His Friends Absolutely Deny the Stories.

although both sides of the sensational scandal which has arisen in old St. Mark's Parish have been pretty thoroughly ventilated it does not appear that the disclosures which have been made have mended matters at all.

In fact, it is feared that the church will go to pieces, for Dr. Rylance has many friends in his congregation who believe him innocent of the REV. DR. J. H. BYLANCE. rges. The vestry seems to be against him and he has many bitter enemies among his flock, who declare that they will never again place themselves under his ministration.

The position of those who are opposed to Dr. Rylance is clearly set forth in the answer made by the defendant, Nicholas Quackenbos, to the complaint in the libel suit by against him complaint in the libel suit by the region.

In this ne alleges, on informer and belief, that Dr. Rylance at various times and places in the city of New York and while he was rector of St. Mark's Church "committed acts upon and spoke words and under proposals to numerous females, which acts, words and proposals were grossly immoral, improper and unbecoming a clergyman.

In Mr. Quackenboa's letter to Dr. Nathan Bozeman, which contains the libel which is made the basis of the suit, these words occur: "Since his affiliation with the intideis of the Nineteenth Ceutury Club a few years ago his course (meaning Dr. Rylance's) has been rapidly dom ward.

The defendant admits that he said this, and says that he meant by it that the plaintiff had been loose in his religious opinions, and that his reptation, both in the parish and in the community, had been seriously impaired in consequence.

community, had been seriously impaired in consequence.

In his zeal to protect himself and the vestry against the charge of consultacy to persecute
Dr. Bylance and drive him out of the church,
Mr. Quackenbos has gone further and made public the substance of the affinivits of the women who have charged the elergyman with immoral conduct towards them.

The first affidavit is that of a woman fortythree years of age, who has been engazed for many years as a jarish visitor in the Tompains Bquare tenement-house district. She is described as a handsome woman, of fine figure, and certain people in the parish, it is said, have observed Dr. Bylance's marked attentions to her even while his wife was living.

Nhe says that on the second interview she had with Dr. Bylance at his house after coming into the parish in 1887, he kissed her and spoke to her with much greater warmth than the occasion warranted. He told her that she was the kind of friend for whom he had been long looking.

Not long after this, she says, he told her of his ing.

Not long after this, she says, he told her of his love for her, and said he wished that he could marry her, and secompanied this avowal of his passion by improper acts and proposals.

Then, she alleges in her affidavit, he proposed to fit up a room for himself in the Mission Chapel next to hers, where they could meet privately, and also offered to furnish apartments for her in town and supply her with money—she was dependent on her church work for support—if she would promise certain things, which are fully detailed, and in concinsion she says she retigned her position at the end of the year and left town solely on account of the gross indignities offered to her by her pastor. A young lady of twenty-eight makes another affidavit, to the effect that on one occasion last Spring when she called at Dr. Rylance's house he manifested undue affection for her and kissed spring when she called at the Atlance's house be maintested undue affection for her and kissed her.

Five weeks afterwards, on her resurn from a visit to Philadelphia, she had occasion to call upon the rector again, when his attentions were much more offensive. She declares that he sat close beside her, placed his hand upon her person and finally seized her by the aukle, when she sprang up and ran to the window.

This young woman has been a communicant at St. Mark's for five years, and is said to possess great personal beauty. She had always had the highest esteem for Dr. Hylance, and his actions shocked and frightened her. She has never spoken to him since that time.

Mr. Quackenbos positively states that numerous other acts of immorality on the part of the rector are known to the vestry, including his attentions to a young woman connected with the Heme for Poor Children, which St. Mark's Church supports at Morristown, N. J.

She was poor, but good looking, and she suddenly, to all appearances, came into possession of plenty of money and settled in handsomely furnished apartments in New York. It is said that she and Dr. Rylance went to the Delaware Water Gap together and stayed there some time.

Another young woman of the congregation, twenty-three years old, saided to the vestry that water Gap together and stayed there some time.

Another young woman of the congregation, twenty-three years old, stated to the vestry that Dr. Rylance once called at her house while her parents were away and attempted to take advantage of her.

The characters of all these women, says Mr. Quackenbos, have been investigated by members of the vestry, and they have all been found to be perfectly respectable. Their statements, he says, cannot be shaken.

Dr. Rylance still denies the truth of the stories, and claims to be the victim of a most cowardly persecution. His lawyer, Mr. Leavitt, says that the statement made by Mr. Quackenbos is full of falsifications, but does not specify wherein they consist.

Ex-Judge Fullerton and Lawyer Leavitt, ecuinsel respectively for Vestryman Quackenbos and Dr. Rylance, appeared before Judice Freedman, in Specific Court, Chambers, this morning. Each asked for an order directing the other to file a bill of particulars, and both orders were granted by Judge Freedman.

Ex-Judge Fullerton asked for ten days in which to prepare his bill, which was granted.

Juige Hussell also, on his own account, declared that the District Attorney had had the case transferred from the Court of General Sessions to the Court of Oyer and Terminer without having first notified him.

Mr. Goff, in reply, offered his own affidavit that the defendants had given bail; that Ambrose Monell was too sick to appear and plead; that Barah Cherry, alias Susau lieynolds, alias Mrs. Raymond, a co-defendant with them, has not been appreciated and is now a fugitive; that on the day, of strangment a stay of ten days before pleading was granted at the request of the defendants, and that at the expiration of the stay defendant entered a plea of not guilty without protest. Capts, Sim and Ed went to the polls carly, voted straight and then, by mutual agreement, went away and lett all to their workers.

Two other brothers of the opposing Hawkinses divided their votes impartially between Sim and Ed, while of eleven sons of the four brothers, six voted for the Republican captain and five for the Democratic.

Capt. Sim thus obtained a family balance of one; but his town went against him by a margin of eighty.

His Lawyers Ask that Indictments for Misappropriation of Cotton Oil Trust | The Broadway and Seventh Avenue Funds Discovered.

> Directors Flagler and Moss Found to be in Fault.

> They Resign and Make Good $250,000 of the Shortage.

Startling Revelations at To-Day's Meeting of the Stockholders of the Trust.

Wall Street was startled this morning by new umors of a sensational character affecting the financial standing of the Cotton Oil Trust.

It was stated that the Investigating Committee appointed by the certificate holders to examine into the accounts of the Trust had discovered a shortage for a very large amount, involving an enormous loss to the shareholders. It was also intimated that several of the officers of the Trust were implicated in the bringing about of there losses, and that efforts would be made to compel them to disgorge some of the profits which they had failed to account for.

These rumors were not pleasant to the cer-tificate holders, and those who were down early were in a state of excitement and anxiety verging upon a panic. Everybody expected that the bottom would fall out of the market this morning, for all the information that could be gleaned regarding and at the same time the exact amount of the and at the same time the exact amount of the losses could not be a certained.

Healizing that the situation was extremely critical, Frederick P. Olcott, the Chairman of the Reorganization Committee, sent out early this morning the following statement:

By roason of the sensational reports this morning respecting a shortage in the accounts of the Cotton Oil Trust, I feel called upon for the protection of the certificate holders, to announce that the report of the feorgraphization Committee to be presented will state under official authority of the floard of Trustees that the total net loss definitely ascertained to all of the Trust organizations is the sum of $277,000 and no more.

Despite this statement the market this morning opened at 31½ for Cotton Oil, which is one per cent, below the closing price of Monday, and there was a very weak feeling for some time, although subsequently there was a slight reaction.

and there was a very weak feeling for some time, although subsequently there was a slight reaction.

Mr. Adams this morning authorized the statement that this shortage was not due to any dishonesty or misappropriation of the funds of the Trust, but was simply brought about by certain errors of judgement on the part of buyers for the Trust, in purchasing crude oil from competing mils.

The meeting of Cotton Oil certificete holders this afternoon at 45 Broadway was an exceedingly lively one, and those who attended it were treated to some, at least, of the sensational developments promised.

It was learned that the actual recent losses of the Trust amounted to $5.27,000, and had been caused by the appropriation of the Trust funds by J. H. Flagler and J. O. Moss, the maragers of the Trust, for the purpose of speculating in the certificates in order to keep up the market.

They had done this without any authority of the Trustees and without their knowledge, and as their purchases failed to sustain prices they lost all they put in.

The result was that both Mr. Flagler and Mr. Moss tendered their resignations to-day, and they were unanimously accepted.

Although they claimed that they had speculated with the intention of benefiting the Trust and that they had authority as directors to do this, they offered to compromise matters by partially making good the losses which they had caused.

Mr. Flagler made a contribution of $100,000 by partially making good the losses which they had caused.

Mr. Flagler made a contribution of $150,000 and Mr. Moss of $100,000.

An aerimonious debate followed on the question of holding the two directors responsible for the whole amount, but it was finally settled by the majority that the Company-should pocket the loss of $277,000. and let the two delinquents off easily.

The scheme of organization reported and accepted provides for the reissue of $21,000,000 certificates of common stock and $15,000,000 preferred stock, after the certificates now outstanding, amounting to nearly $43,000,000, are called in.

Meanwhile the present Committee will go on and complete the reorganization and incorperation of the common, when another meeting of stockholders will be called and permanent officers elected. The affairs of the Trust are now entirely in the hands of the Committee.

Stephen Gillam, a painter, of 147 Cherry street, lies dead in Bellevue Hospital, having street, lies dead in Bellevue Hospital, having expired suddenly while under the influence of an amesthetic administered by Dr. Theodore Dunham, one of the hospital staff.

Gillam was admitted to the hospital on Sunday suffering from an abscess of the neck.

Last night the patient was suffering so that Dr. Dunham decided to perform an operation to give him relief.

He prepared the anæsthetic, which he claims was ether, and placed the inhaling cap over Gilliam's face.

After breathing the drug for six m'nutes, Gilliam gave a gasp and expired.

Coroner Messemer was notified of the occurrence, and he decided to perform an autopsy tomorrow in the presence of Dr. Dunham, to determine the cause of death.

Dr. Dunham is the physician who, some time ago, reported the death of a patient from a fracture of the skull.

Coroner Messemer made an autopsy and decided that the man died from carbolic acid poisoning, which decision was confirmed by the Coroner's Jury.
